16. 15.7 Method of Selection:
(Note: delete whichever is not applicable)

1. In the case of simplified procedure of technical evaluation, the consultants who are found qualified under all the parameters of the eligibility criteria mentioned above under para 15 will be considered technically qualified for award of contract. Price bids of all these technically qualified firms will be opened and contract awarded to the lowest bidder, after negotiations, if necessary.
or
2. In the case of detailed procedure of technical evaluation, all the consultant who secure above a specified percentage of marks (to be specified here. It can range from 60 to 80% depending upon the quality of the expertise required) will be considered as technically qualified for award of contract. Alternatively, the consultant may be selected based on their relative ranking (which needs to be specified in the RFP document for example, the first three ranked consultant may be qualified technically). Financial bids of only such qualified consultants will be opened and the consultant quoting the lowest evaluated price for the assignment will be considered for negotiations and award of contract.
3. In certain primarily highly technical and complex situations where it is considered that technical score should have a high weightage in deciding the final selection of the consultant, the technical quality of the proposal will be given a weightage of 70 % (percentage to be specified), the method of evaluation of technical qualification will follow the procedure given in para 15(2) above. The price bids of only those consultants who qualify technically will be opened. The proposal with the lowest cost may be given a financial score of 100 and the other proposal given financial score that are inversely proportionate to their prices. The financial proposal shall be allocated weight of 30%. For working out the combined score, the employer will use the following formula:

Total points = $T(w) \times T(s) + F(w) \times LEC / EC$, where

T (w) stands for weight of the technical score.

T (s) stands for technical score

F (w) stands for weight of the financial proposal

EC stands for Evaluated Cost of the financial proposal

LEC stands for Lowest Evaluated Cost of the financial proposal.

The proposals will be ranked in terms of total points scored. The proposal with the highest total points (H-1) will be considered for award of contract and will be called for negotiations, if required.

or

4. In the case of QBS method of selection the proposal securing the highest marks in the evaluation of technical proposal shall be considered for award of contract. The financial proposals of only this consultant will be opened and negotiations carried out, if required before award of contract.

Instructions to the User

(It will not form part of RFP. To be detached before sending the RFP to the short listed consultants.)

1. This document is the Standard Request for Proposals (SRFP) for use of Government Ministries / Department where the expenditure is to be financed from the budgetary resources of the Central Government. The document is based on the Manual of Policies and Procedure of Employment of Consultants (Nov 2005) (hereinafter called the manual) as may be amended from time to time . The SRFP must be used whenever possible in the selection of Consultants. However, specific assignments will require modification of the SRFP which shall be carried out based on the nature of the assignment / job, the selection process to be adopted and the assignment specific conditions of contract. This activity will be called “preparation of RFP”.

2. Before preparing an RFP, the user must be familiar with the Manual, provisions of the GFR and other guidelines issued by the Government of India from time to time. As mentioned in para 2.4.1 of the Manual, except in the case of low cost assignment where the procedure to be followed is mentioned in para 2.4.3 of manual, for all other consultancy contracts the process of engagement of consultants shall begin with an advertisement called “request for expression of interest” (EOI) for preparing a short list of consultants. The advertisement shall be released in at least one National Newspaper and on the Ministries Website. The advertisement should include in brief the broad scope of assignment / job, requirement of Ministry or department and last date of submission of the details. The detailed must be provided on the web site (preferably in the form of EOI document) which should mention scope of work, instruction to the consultants, evaluation criteria, details about submission regarding consultants past experience, man power details and financial details. The ministry or department shall furnish prescribed formats to be filled up by the consultant. Based on the response received the Ministry / Department will prepare a short list of those consultants based on the pre-qualification criteria as mentioned in the manual and as prescribed in the details of EOI. Details can be seen in the Manual. The short listed consultants are, thereafter, requested to submit their technical and financial proposals in the standard RFP prepared by the Ministry / Department for the assignment. The process of preparation of RFP will involve the following:

- (a) Preparation of the “data sheet” which contains assignment specific instructions to the consultants for preparation and submission of their proposal / bid.
- (b) Preparation of TOR.
- (c) Preparation of selection criteria including Technical Qualification (TQ) and financial criteria of the consultants.
- (d) Decision about the selection process.
- (e) Formats for technical and financial proposals.
- (f) Assignment / job specific conditions of contract.
- (g) Form of contract.

3. Evaluation of proposals will be carried out as per details given in paras 2.9 to 2.14 of the Manual. Negotiations, if any, will be done as per para 2.15 of the Manual.

4. In very special circumstances the employer may also modify suitably the general conditions of contract and the standard instructions to consultant. This should, however, be done only with legal and financial concurrence.
5. An important aspect of the preparation of RFP is the preparation of a draft Contract document. For this purpose the following guidelines will be followed:
 - a. The Standard Contract consists of four parts: the Form of Contract to be signed by the Client and the Consultant, the General Conditions of Contract, the Special Conditions of Contract, and the Appendices. General Conditions are generally not to be modified. Clauses in the Special Conditions will be used to modify the General conditions.
 - b. For assignments for which remuneration is being determined on the basis of the time actually spent by the Consultant in carrying out the services for example disinvestment process, project management services, advisory services etc., the Time-based contracts are recommended. In such cases generally the scope of the services cannot be established with sufficient precision, or the duration and quantity of services depends on variables that are beyond the control of the Consultant. In time-based contracts the Consultant provides services on a timed basis according to quality specifications, and Consultant's remuneration is based on (i) agreed upon unit rates for Consultant staff multiplied by the actual time spent by the staff in executing the assignment, and (ii) reimbursable expenses using actual expenses and/or agreed unit prices. This type of contract requires the Client to closely supervise Consultant and to be involved in the daily execution of the assignment.
 - c. Lump-sum contracts are normally used when definition of the tasks to be performed is clear and unambiguous, when the commercial risk taken by the Consultant are relatively low, and when therefore such Consultant are prepared to perform the assignment for an agreed predetermined lump-sum price. Such price is arrived at on the basis of inputs including rates – provided by the Consultant. The Client agrees to pay the Consultant according to a schedule of payments linked to the delivery of certain outputs, for example reports. A major advantage of the lump-sum contract is the simplicity of its administration, the Client having only to be satisfied with the outputs without monitoring the staff inputs. Studies are usually carried out on a lump-sum basis: for example, surveys, master plans, disinvestment reports, simple feasibility and engineering studies.
6. After the RFP for the assignment has been prepared it will be sent to the short listed consultants for obtaining their technical and financial proposals.
7. For evaluation of the RFP bids, suggested formats and criteria have been provided in the manual.
